

Hi I am Ingrid Anderson! I have contributed to a game called Oh The Horror, along with Evan Ristani and Gaurav Paracha.

This clicker game features a sentient eldritch altar that you, the player character, must work for. In this story clicker game, you encounter a sentient eldritch altar that demands you work for it. Throughout the game, you gather influence, souls, and cultists before eventually choosing whether you want to continue to work for the altar, destroy the altar and leave forever, or overthrow it and become an eldritch overlord yourself.

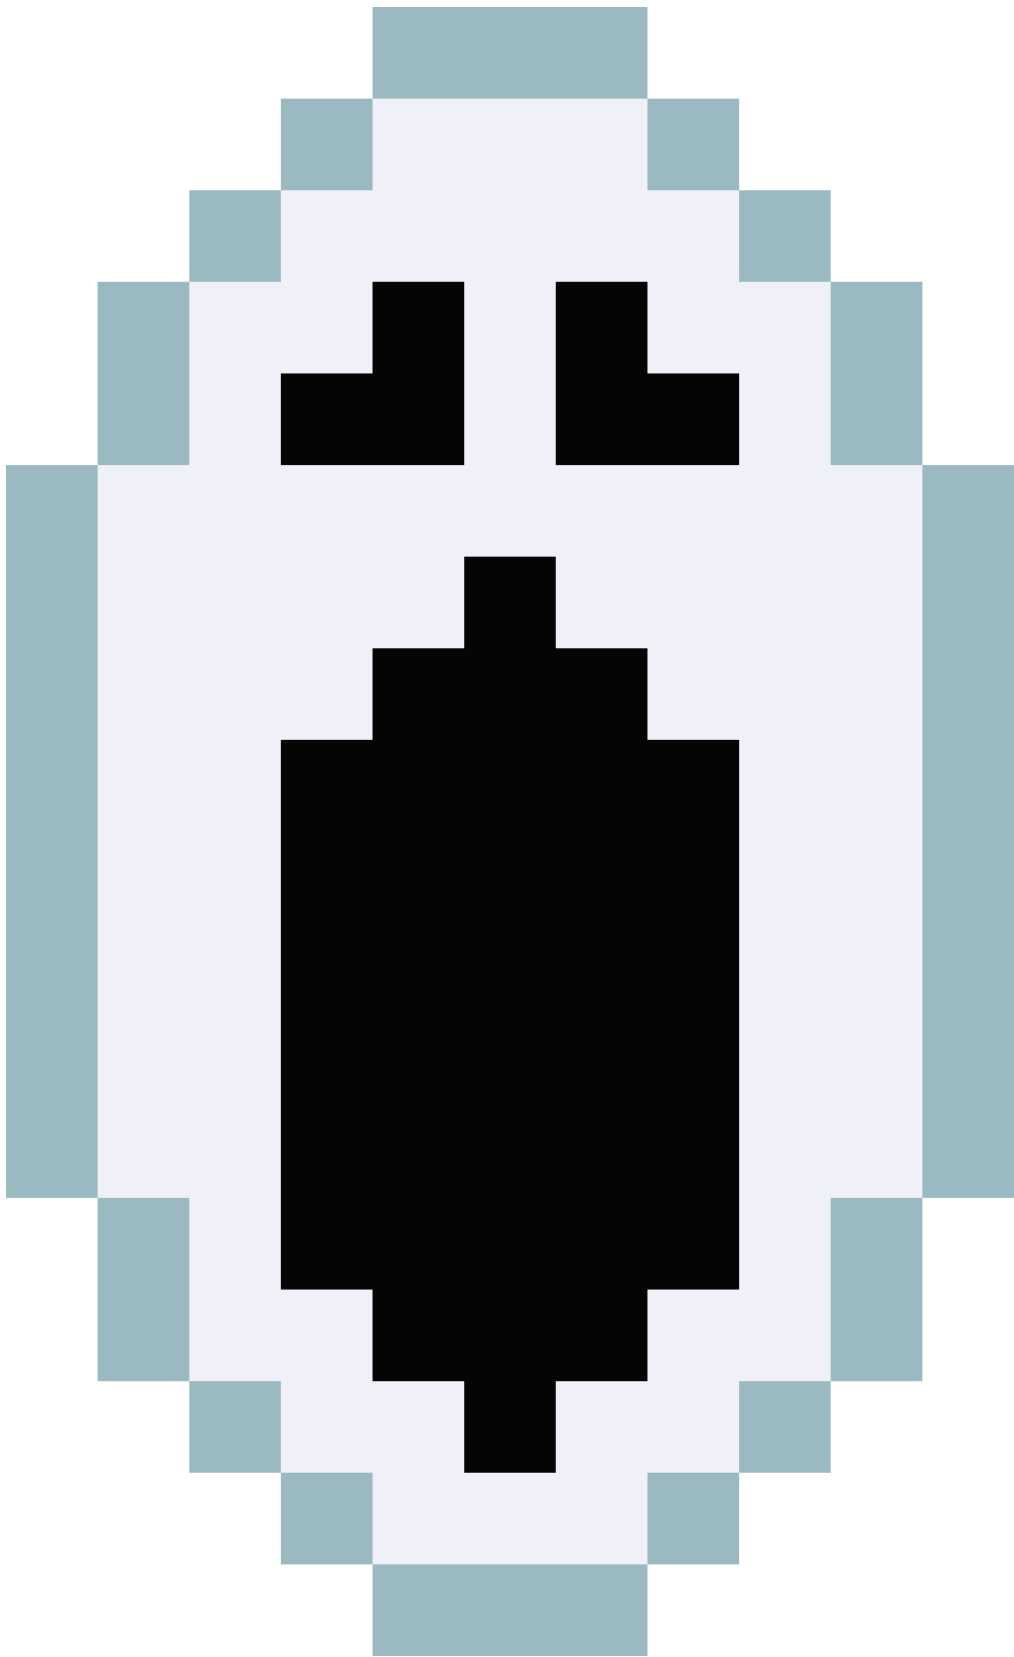

I personally have developed numerous assets and have assisted in making gameplay decisions, as well as changes to the overall story.

Below are some of the assets I've created.

A corrupted cultist, housing an eldritch entity. This character generates eldritch influence in game, at the cost of losing a cultist.

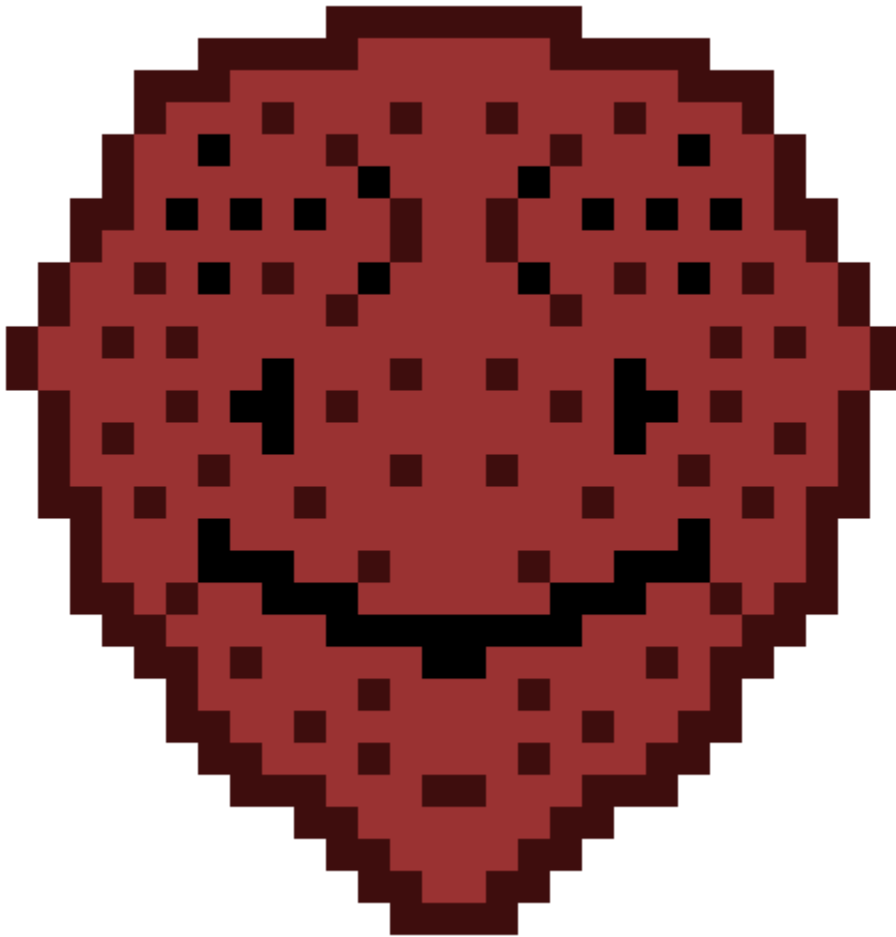

Here's the icon for the soul currency.

Here's the secret boss, the fiendish queen of hell, Strawberry Shortcake.

As well as here is her attendant, Frageria.

The altar itself is animated, check out the file AltarFinal.gif for the animation!